The changes in the health care industry under the Affordable Care Act have not only impacted primary health care but have also heavily influenced how those in the behavioral health care arena are currently doing business. Some of the biggest adjustments are related to accessing Medicaid reimbursement and the transition to electronic health records. Ms. Everett will discuss some of the challenges and obstacles her nonprofit agency, Quest Counseling and Consulting, Inc., has faced over the past year as well as new opportunities and relationships in the current healthcare environment.

Denise Everett, MA, is a licensed marriage and family therapist and drug and alcohol counselor. Prior to her current position as Executive Director of Quest Counseling and Consulting, she served as Project Director for the Frontier Recovery Network at UNR; Chief Executive Officer for Principle Consulting; and was the Executive Director for Sage Wind, an adolescent treatment center.

Quest Counseling and Consulting, Inc. is a 501 c 3 nonprofit corporation located in Reno. Quest has been offering outpatient services since 2003 and opened a 10-bed transitional living facility for boys in 2012. While the agency has an expertise and focus on working with adolescents and young adults with substance use, mental health and co-occurring disorders, services are also available for adult, family and couples therapy. Quest contracts with a psychiatrist, a psychologist and has several licensed MFTs on staff. The agency serves approximately 250 clients a month.
